INFORMATION ON PROMOTER ELECTION ADVERTISING

WHO MUST FILE A RETURN?

Only registered promoters for the 2023 General Election who spend more than $100,000 (inclusive of GST) on election advertising published during the regulated period (14 July to 13 October) must file a return of expenses with the Electoral Commission.

KEEPING RECORDS OF PROMOTER EXPENSES

Promoters must keep good records of all election advertising expenses. Promoters must keep invoices and receipts for all election expenses of $50 or more for three years after election day.

Further information on advertising expenses for promoters is available in the Third Party Handbook - General Election 2023.

ELECTION EXPENSES Complete Part A

Your election expenses during the regulated period (14 July to 13 October 2023) must not exceed $391,000 (including GST). It is an offence to spend more than this.

Information on Election Expenses

Election expenses are the costs of advertising in any medium that:

- may reasonably be regarded as encouraging or persuading voters to vote or not to vote for a party or candidate, or to vote or not to vote for a type of party or candidate by reference to views or positions held or taken, and
- are published, or continue to be published, during the regulated period for the general election.

Election expenses include:

- the costs incurred in the preparation, composition, printing, postage and publication of the advertisement, and
- the reasonable market value of any material used or applied towards the advertisement provided to the registered promoter for free or below reasonable market value.

Further guidance is available in the Third Party Handbook - General Election 2023

Instructions on how to complete Part A

You only need to complete a return of expenses if you spent over $100,000 on election advertising during the regulated period.

You should record all election expenses incurred in relation to election advertisements promoted by the registered promoter that were published, or continued to be published, during the regulated period for the general election.

For advertisements published both before and during the regulated period you should apportion the costs so that only a fair proportion of the expenses are attributed to being incurred during the regulated period. Only record the amount attributable to the regulated period in the return.

Disclose the total amount incurred on election advertisements (including GST) published during the regulated period even if payment for the advertising was made outside of the regulated period.

The description of the item should be sufficient to identify where and when it was published. Where the advertisement encourages or persuades voters to vote for one or more identifiable candidate(s) or party(ies) you should also provide the name of the candidate(s) and/or party(ies).
