

Statistics on Elector Enrolment During the 2020 & 2023 General Election Voting Period

Technical Notes

As with all data used by the Electoral Commission, we urge users to use the data ethically and remember that this data represents real people.

The 2023 counts are of enrolled electors who were on the roll as of election day (14/10/2023) for the 2023 General Election. Enrolments counted for the voting period include any enrolment received via paper form or digital enrolment from an elector from 02/10/2023 - 14/10/2023.

The 2020 counts are of enrolled electors who were on the roll as of election day (17/10/2020) for the 2020 General Election. Enrolments counted for the voting period include any enrolment received via paper form or digital enrolment from an elector from 03/10/2020 - 17/10/2020.

Electors enrolling or updating enrolment details during the voting period may have done so within the voting place or online prior to voting.

The total number of enrolments in this table will not match total enrolments taken or processed during the voting period (total processed is 453,940) as it is counting eligible electors (distinct people). Duplicates, multiple enrolments for one elector, and enrolments from people not eligible are not included in these statistics.

Not all of the electors with voting period enrolments will have needed to cast a special vote, as some would not have impacted voting rights.

The counts do not include electors who were not enrolled on election day that attempted to vote (disallowed votes for not being enrolled or eligible).

The total number of electors by electorate includes those on the Māori roll living within that general electorate (as it's meant to be a geographic breakdown rather than the electorate where an elector is enrolled), so won't match election results number of electors enrolled.

As a small number of data patches have been applied since the 2020 general election, the total number of electors is slightly higher than in the official results.

Although the utmost care has been taken in the preparing and presentation of this data, mistakes do happen. If you see an error or something that does not look right, please let the Data and Insights Team know.
