

Statistics on Special Votes for the 2023 General Election

Technical Notes

As with all data used by the Electoral Commission, we urge users to use the data ethically and remember that this data represents real people.

SV - Allowed and Disallowed gives total special vote counts from the 2023 general election split by allowed and disallowed and reason for being disallowed. This information can also be found at https://www.electionresults.govt.nz/electionresults\_2023/statistics/sdv-disallowed.html

The Party SV - Overseas gives the breakdown of special votes in the 2023 general election by special votes cast in Aotearoa New Zealand and those cast from Overseas voters. This information can also be found at https://www.electionresults.govt.nz/electionresults\_2023/statistics/party-sdv-by-electorate.html

The Outside Electorate data includes Special Votes cast outside the elector's home electorate in a voting place where ordinary votes for that electorate (shared electorates) were not available. Some busy voting places give ordinary votes for the surrounding electorates. Any elector from these surrounding electorates is not included. Electors counted in this data may have secondary reasons for casting a special vote, such as being on the unpublished roll, voting from a prison, hospital or aged care facility not in their home electorate, or enrolling after writ day.

The prison teams data contains the number of special votes by electorate the elector is registered within. Incarcerated electors or electors on remand may also have other reasons for casting a special vote, such as enrolling after writ day.

The hospital and aged care teams data contains the number of special votes by electorate the elector is registered within gathered by teams who visited hospitals or aged care facilities. In a few cases, these teams may have visited other locations such as health centres and these votes are included in these counts, as they cannot be separated out. Electors in hospitals or aged care facilities may also have other reasons for casting a special vote, such as enrolling after writ day.

Special vote counts via mobile teams, takeaway votes, or dictation counts the number of votes received. Some of these votes may have been informal or disallowed.

Telephone dictation votes are available for electors who are blind, partially blind, or unable to mark their voting papers unaided. Remote voting services provide services to electors on islands administered by the Department of Conservation and Campbell, Raoul, Pitt Islands, Ross Dependency, Tokelau, offshore installations, and vessels. Remote voting counts do not include 4 remote votes that were issued and returned to an Electoral Commission Voting Headquarters.

As the Electoral Commission does not keep data connecting particular votes to an electors name, we are unable to provide data on electors who have enrolled after writ day and cast a special vote. However, we have included statistics on enrolments made after writ day. Electors who are enrolling for the first time and electors who are re-enrolling after not being on the main roll will have cast a special vote if they chose to vote. Not all electors who updated their details will have cast a special vote as some updates will not have impacted their voting rights.

Although the utmost care has been taken in the preparing and presentation of this data, mistakes do happen. If you see an error or something that does not look right, please let the Electoral Commission know.
